Nystrom Joins IIW Minnesota Team

Returns to St. Cloud to Serve Community

St. Cloud, Minn. – IIW Minnesota announced today that Mitchel Nystrom has joined the architectural team. Nystrom grew up in St. Cloud, graduating from Apollo High School.

“I’m excited to be back home and working with a team of architects that are helping create important spaces in our community,” Nystrom said.

Nystrom received a Masters of Architecture and a bachelor of science in architecture from North Dakota State University.

IIW Minnesota currently is providing architectural design and implementation services for new schools in the Sartell- Stephen School District and St. Cloud Area School District, as well as several other key community projects.

IIW Minnesota, headquartered in St. Cloud, is a relationship-driven firm focused on providing more complete solutions with teams of specialists in engineering, architecture and surveying. It is part of IIW, P.C., with offices in Iowa and Wisconsin. IIW started in 1982 and has grown to a full-service architecture, engineering and surveying firm in the Upper Midwest, providing clients services from concept to completion.
